

The Little Bat Tournament
September 9, 2007

Description: Geneva College is not only the home of college basketball, but also to the great game of Little Bat. This addicting game has taken Geneva by storm as students make their way down to the tennis courts to swing for the fences. There is no telling of who will be the one to step up to the plate on any given night - it could be you! Legends and heroes emerge from the least expected places, as this fun team-building game lends itself for all to play.

Details: The game of Little Bat is played with a little bat and tennis balls. The rules are the same as baseball, but the main difference is that the bat is a lot smaller (adding to the technical difficulty) and pitches are made on a bounce with a tennis ball.

Sunday, September 23rd is the date of the tournament. The opening ceremonies begin at 1:30PM with the first game at 1:45PM. Games will be played all day long, possibly lasting into the night. It is open to the entire Geneva community for all to watch, play, and enjoy.

Resources: The following resources will aid in the game's success:

Tennis Balls:	$15
T-Shirts:	$35
Future games for the year:	+$50
Total amount:	$100

Facts to consider:

- Number of participants in last year's tournament: 60+
- Members who joined the Facebook group in one week's time: 80
- Little Bat is one of the safer sports played and populated by Geneva College students around campus.

Motion: We move to allocate $100 for the Little Bat Tournament and the 2007-2008 season to come.
