Mark Huberdeau ‘90, Human Resources

American astronaut Buzz Aldrin said, “Timing has always been a key element in my life. I have been blessed to have been in the right place at the right time.” God’s perfect timing can surprise us in times of struggle and desperation.

Mark Huberdeau has experienced such a time. He had recently moved to Pittsburgh, and enrolled at the University of Pittsburgh for evening classes to complete his bachelor’s degree. He had reached the point in his education when he had to declare a major, but the major he wanted was only offered full-time. Because he worked full-time to support his growing family, entering a traditional college schedule was not a possibility and did not provide me with credentials needed to support advancement in work or higher education.”

Because he was new to the area, and the Adult Degree Programs was in its fledgling state, he was unfamiliar with it and decided to call an enrollment counselor to learn more about the program and the human resources major. What he discovered seemed to be designed just for him! “It provided a concentrated path to attain my long term goals, and it fit my needs of work and family.” Classes met only one night a week and lasted less than 18 months.

However, one of the most beneficial aspects of the program, in addition to the flexible schedule and adult-specific curriculum, was the cohort-style classroom. “The program fostered a community environment with the cohort arrangement. I was no longer just a chord with me as it seemed to fit my situation. I had advanced my education with various college credits, but they were unfocused and did not provide me with credentials needed to support advancement in work or higher education.”
